Station Owner Identifies Black As One Who Held Him Up.

HAS POLICE RECORD

Negro Shot Once By Officers and Figured In Jail Break.

Chief Baker, Patrolman Arnett and Deputy Sheriff Porter last night captured Ed Hill, negro, with the holding up of Rettig's filling station on West Division last July 11 and have him safely in jail at Washington.

After the arrest Mr. Rettig identified the negro as the one who held him up and relieved him of a considerable sum in currency, later identifying the pistol with which the negro was armed when arrested.

Officers found the negro near the Junior High School building, where he was in hiding. At command he elevated one hand but a second sharp order was necessary to force him to drop the pistol he was carrying.

Placed in Jail Break
Last fall Hill was arrested by county officers when found working at a still south of town which was being raided. He showed fight then, reaching for a pistol, but was considerably discouraged when a load of peppered his anatomy.

He was given preliminary hearing and placed in jail to await action of the grand jury. Before that body convened he, with other prisoners, effected an escape, remaining at large until last night.

Shortly after his escape from jail the robbery of the Rettig station occurred. Officers suspected that Hill might have been connected with the crime, they say, but had no opportunity to prove it until he came back to Hope a day or two ago.

League Head Not 'Hot' for New Bill

Says Efficacy of Sheppard's New Proposal
Is Open Question

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—F. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, in a statement today said it was an open question whether the Sheppard bill to make the buyer of liquor equally guilty with the seller would help enforcement.

He said the matter had not been considered formally by either the executive or the administrative committee, but that it appeared to him the importance of the matter had been exaggerated.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—An inquiry to determine whether the government can prosecute the buyer of liquor under section six of the Volstead act, which prohibits the sale, manufacture or purchase of liquor without a permit, was proposed today by Senator Sheppard, author of the 18th amendment.

Ministers Seek Contempt Review

One Contends Any Pulpit
Utterance Is Not Contempt.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—The Rev. G. A. Briegleb, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, who with the Rev. R. P. Shuler of Trinity Methodist church was found guilty of contempt of court for public utterances in connection with the recent trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of Alexander Pantages, wealthy theatre man, today planned to press for a review of the decision by a higher court.

Briegleb was fined $25 on one count and Shuler $75 on two counts at contempt down yesterday by Superior Judges Carlos Hardy, Clay S. Tappan and Thomas C. Gould, sitting en banc. The ministers were charged with having publicly said before the taking of testimony was begun, that the Pantages jury was "already hung."

Shuler indicated that he will pay his fine as soon as formal judgment is entered. Briegleb argued at the hearing that the courts had no jurisdiction over remarks made from the pulpit.

John Preston, 32-year-old Chicago decorator, described as a "model husband" by his wife, faces a murder charge as the aftermath of a party made possible by telling Mrs. Preston that he was "working late at the office." Preston confessed to authorities at Wheaton, Ill., Chicago suburb, he attacked and strangled to death pretty Agnes Johnson, 26-year-old stenographer, whose body was found beside a road near West Chicago. Preston is shown below, right, with Sheriff Lawrence Hattendorf of Dupage county, who arrested him.

Ward's Take Part Historical Night In Light Jubilee To Feature Meet

Local Store to Participate Presentation of Service
In Celebrating Light's 50th Birthday. Crosses Interesting Ceremony.

A. S. Sheffer of Montgomery Ward & Co.'s Home store, announced today that his store will take an active part in commemorating the invention of the first successful incandescent electric lamp by Edison, October 21, 879.

Extensive plans have been prepared for an unusually interesting historical electrical window. An actual replica of the "carbon lamp" will be shown in comparison with the newest means of illumination—the 100-watt lamp.

The windows will also display in actual photographs Thomas A. Edison's own experimental laboratory at Menlo Park, N. J., in which the lamp was perfected and many other interesting photographs relative to the contemporaneous growth of Montgomery Ward's stores. The public is especially urged to see the historical display which is of much educational value.

U. S. Fight for Fuse Plug Levee Plan

Deny Charge This Plan Is "Hidden Danger" To
Property Owners

MONROE, La., Oct. 16.—(AP)—The government defense today in Federal court against the granting of a permanent injunction against the fuse plug levee plan for the Bonnet Basin contained as giving that plan would not exceed the damage caused by perennial floods.

This point was brought out in the testimony of Captain John Paul Deun, hydraulic engineer, who has made a study of the project for the government, and was intended to offset the testimony of R. Foster Kincaid, Bonnet Basin engineer, that the plan would be ruinous and the Jadwin plan enjoined until just compensation to property owners has been arranged. Judge Ben C. Dawkins was called on in the hearing to determine whether the additional flood waters to be diverted over plaintiff's land by flood control plan would be more damaging than the usual Mississippi floods.

Two Die As 'Human Fly' Is Hurtled Through Space

Stunt Performer Falls 22

SPECTATOR KILLED

Falling Body Strikes Bystander, Breaking
His Neck.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Losing his grin on a rope down which he was sliding from the top of the new 44-story opera building, Rudy Cimino 23-year-old New York stunt man, fell 20 stories to his death yesterday, injuring several spectators, one fatally.

Albert Beckman, 17, a bystander, was struck by Cimino's hurtling body and suffered a broken neck from which he died. John Carver, 18, was knocked down and injured but his condition is not serious.

Hundreds of people saw the fall, which ended a publicity stunt arranged by a news reel company. Cimino, before going to the top of the building, made a brief talk, saying he intended to slide down head first. He was seen to have difficulty in keeping his feet above his head, however, and soon before reaching the 20th floor he began somersaulting in his effort to gain position.

Trial of Convict Killer Goes Over

Charged With Murder of Warden, Gets Term
Continuance

PINE BLUFF, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The trial of Emory Taylor, trusty convict under indictment for the shooting of Warden George Goelzer at the Tucker State Farm in May, was postponed by Judge Farham in circuit court today until next October 15.

Taylor was scheduled to have gone to trial today but his attorneys petitioned for a delay, asserting that a material witness was not available.

Goelzer was slain under mysterious circumstances. Taylor was arrested the next day and is alleged to have made a confession to sheriff Garland Brewster that he shot Goelzer after a quarrel over the way the farm was operated by the latter. Later, he repudiated the confession.

Taylor was serving a sentence for robbery when the killing occurred.

Board Approves 18 New Pensions

But 17 Are Rejected for Lack of Proof of Service.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 16.—The State Pension Board yesterday approved 18 new applications for pensions and rejected 17 for lack of sufficient proof of service. Those rejected may be reconsidered if additional proof is furnished. Several of those approved yesterday were rejected upon first presentation, but were reconsidered when additional evidence was filed with the board.

The board will meet again soon to consider cases brought to its attention in connection with the proposed purging of the pension roll, authorized by an act of the legislature.

Ministers Fined Contempt Charge

Alleged They Attempted To Influence Course of Trial.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 16.—The Rev. R. P. Shuler, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church south, and the Rev. Gustave A. Biegler, Presbyterian minister, today were adjudged in contempt of court by three Superior Court judges sitting en banc, and fined $75 and $25 respectively.

Contempt citations, brought by Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy, who presided at the trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages on a second degree murder charge, alleged that the ministers delivered addresses attempting to influence the course of the trial.

More Rooms Needed for U. D. C. Visitors

Committees in charge of securing quarters for delegates who will attend the U. D. C. state convention here next week report experiencing considerable difficulty in securing the number of rooms to be needed.

A check-up this morning shows only 91 rooms are so far available, there will be 135 delegates, to say nothing of the many visitors who will attend the meeting, and of you are at all in position to open your home to one or more of these distinguished guests to the city advise the committee without delay.

Mrs. W. W. Duckett, at phone 115, will be glad to have you call and notify her of the number you will care for.

The success of this convention is the city's business as much as it is of the local chapter of the organization and any loyal citizen should feel honored to render so small a service to the U. D. C. and the community.

Cult Leader Held In Robbery Charge

Oil Operator Says Was
"Frisked" of $40,000
With Promises

LOS ANGELES, October 16.—(AP)—Mrs. May Otis Blackburn, high priestess of "The Divine Order of the Royal Arm of the Great Eleven" was held in jail today in default of $70,000 bail for trial in Superior Court on two counts of theft brought by Clifford Dabney, wealthy oil operator and former member of the cult.

Mrs. Ruth Weiland Rizzio, daughter of Mrs. Blackburn, and second priestess of the organization was released yesterday when a Municipal Court judge here ruled the evidence was insufficient to hold her and warrant grand jury action.

The cult came under fire from city and county authorities recently when Dabney filed charges that Mrs. Blackburn and her daughter had mislaid him of $40,000 for the publication of the "Sixth Seal," a cult book under preparation which, it was asserted would reveal all the secrets of nature, including the location of precious minerals.

Lobby Probe Is Getting Results

Beet Sugar People Put Up
$70,000 As Starter

Convention

HOT SPRINGS, Oct. 16.—(AP)—T. J. Talbert, professor of horticulture at the University of Missouri, at Columbia, and a pioneer Kiwanis Club worker in the Missouri, Kansas and Arkansas district, was today elected district governor of the organization and Topeka named as the next convention city at the conclusion session of the annual district convention here.

Talbert succeeds Chancellor Frank H. Dodge, of Little Rock, the first Arkansawyer ever to serve as governor of the district.

Five Sentenced To Penitentiary By Circuit Court

Capacity Crowd Attending Court Session At Washington

TWO ARE ACQUITTED

Publix - Saenger Case
Scheduled for Hearing
Thursday

With five sentenced to the penitentiary on a plea of guilty to grand jury indictments, Hempstead circuit court was in full swing on the criminal docket at Washington today.

The case of Roy Burns, charged with making muzz, was being heard when court re-convened at 1 o'clock this afternoon for the closing session of the day, Judge W. H. Arnold presiding.

Plea of guilty entered yesterday and today, with their respective sentences were as follows:

W. D. Daniel, burglary, three years.
Tom (Jesse) Lewis, burglary and grand larceny, two years.
Lonnie Norvell and Reed Tarter grand larceny, one year each on two counts, sentences to run concurrently; a burglary count was dismissed.

Ed Hill, manufacturing liquor, one year.

Finley Goodlet, charged with possessing liquor, and M. L. Cor, charged with possessing a still, were acquitted on trial.

Scheduled for hearing Thursday is the first of 15 indictments against the Publix-Saenger theater charging the illegal operation of Sunday motion picture shows at Hope.

The present term of court, particularly this week's criminal division, is drawing capacity crowds at the courthouse at Washington.

Bishop's Brokers Enter Guilty Pleas

Admit Guilt When Cases Called In Federal Court

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Harry Goldbert and Chas. W. Kable, indicted as the result of the failure of Kable & Co., stock and bond brokers, pleaded guilty today in Federal court to charges of conspiracy and fraudulent sale of stocks through the mails.

Public interest in the affairs of the firm was first aroused when it was discovered the firm had made financial investment for Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the M. E. Church, citing the Bishop as one of its best customers.

Negress Head of Home Is Indicted

Brutality To Inmates Is Basis of Grand Jury
Charge

MEMPHIS, October 16.—(AP)—Bessie Simon, negress, superintendent of the Industrial Settlement Home, negro owned and operated orphanage which was destroyed by fire in September, was indicted on five counts of mayhem and assault and battery at a special session of the Shelby county grand jury today.

The indictments followed charges of torture made against the negress by inmates of the institution and officers of the Tennessee Children's Home Society.

Bar Association Talks Divorce

Aged Woman Is Axe Killer Today

Slays Husband She Had Lived With Nearly Half a Century

SUMMIT, N. J., October 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Laura Mathilda Titus, 70, white-haired and wrinkled, today slew her 78-year-old husband, James Titus, whom she had married 49 years ago, with an axe.

Mrs. Titus, who weighs little more than 100 pounds told police she slew her husband because she could no longer endure his abuse. He had been drinking heavily, she said, and was intoxicated this morning when she struck him twice with the axe.

Hope Girls Pledged In Galloway Rush Week

SEARGEY, Ark., Oct. 16.—Following completion of the "rush" events, the list of pledges has been announced by the Irving and Lanier Literary societies of Galloway Woman's College.

New Mayor Named To Borger Office

Sheriff To Be Named At County Commissioner's Meeting.

BORGER, Tex., Oct. 16.—The lifting of martial law here was a step nearer Tuesday night following the appointment late Tuesday of W. A. Henderson, owner of the Black man, as the new mayor of Borger.

Henderson is a close friend of Governor Dan Moody's father-in-law. It is at his hotel here that the rangers have made their headquarters since the instigation of martial law.

Henderson was given the official approval of District Attorney Clem Calhoun to succeed Glenn Pace, who resigned Monday at the request of state officials.

Dyke D. Callum, auto dealer, was named police commissioner in place of J. W. Crabtree, who also quit at official request.

Still another commissioner to be named will be chosen at a meeting early Tuesday night between Calhoun and a group of Borger citizens.

Naming a sheriff to succeed Joe Owsbey, another resigned county official, will probably take place Wednesday.

"No man who has ever been in politics here will get the post," was the only comment Calhoun would make when questioned as to who would likely be named as the new sheriff.

Style Show At Saenger Tonight Holds Interest

Models Hold Rehearsals
In Preparation for Big Event

SPECIAL EXHIBITION

Show Attracts More Attention Than Any Other
Event of Season

Throughout the business section of Hope, veiled windows are arousing curiosity of passers-by, speculating on preparations which are being made by these stores for the Window Carnival of Fashions. These veils will be lifted promptly at 6:30 this evening. The Hope Boy's band will play and parade from 7 to 7:30, throughout the business district as an entertainment feature of the occasion. The entire country side has been invited to come to Hope to witness the spectacular event.

Last minute preparations for the Style Show are being completed by Mrs. Talbot Field, in charge of that event. The models were fitted in garments yesterday, many brought to Hope by leading business men especially for the occasion. There was a rehearsal on the stage of the theatre yesterday evening, and a dress rehearsal will be held late this evening. The Style Show will be presented promptly at 8 o'clock tonight at the Saenger theatre. A special run-way has been constructed, leading from the center of the stage, over the seats in the first few rows, and well toward the center of the show house. The models will display the new fall and advance winter styles from this vantage point.

Murder, Suicide Is Police Theory

Believe Man Killed Woman and Then Committed Suicide

WALLINGFORD, Conn., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Police were convinced today that Mrs. Anna Bryan Ayres advertising expert, had been shot to death by William Gaylord, a bookkeeper, who then killed himself. The bodies were found yesterday in an inn.

Mrs. Ayres, 41, was the divorced wife of Ernest Ayres, former Amherst college professor, and was the mother of three children. Her home was in West Haven. Gaylord 50, lived in Elsa Hartford.

The bodies, with bullet wounds in their temples, were found by Robert Hyatt, manager of the Inn, who broke down the door of the room after repeated efforts to get the couple to answer had failed.

Lamar Bank Bandit On Trial

Battle Looms Over Degree of Crime and Punishment Meted Out.

LAMAR, Colo., Oct. 16.—(AP)—The case of Howard L. Royston, charged with murder in connection with the robbery of the First National Bank of Lamar in 1928, and the fatal shooting of the bank's president, was called in court here Monday.

A battle loomed over selection of a jury to determine whether he was guilty of first or second degree murder, and to determine the penalty. He pleaded guilty to first degree murder, but the jury may find a lesser degree, and will decide on imprisonment or hanging.

Fearless tax reform, and a more efficient government through the budget system of expenditures.
Free Arkansas from the cattle tick.

A Howard County View

THE following comment on the controversy over the proposed consolidation of the Saratoga-Okay school with Mineral Springs appearing in Tuesday's issue of the Nashville News:

With the building of the cement plant at Okay, the Saratoga school district was assured of sufficient revenue to maintain the highest standard of educational facilities for the pupils of the district, and the fact that the school board of that district has been able in the past, before they received the extra money from the cement plant to operate a good school and stay out of debt is sufficient argument that the people of the district have enough ability to operate and attend to the affairs of the school without the assistance of a board at Mineral Springs or any other point.

It is not believed by those who have studied the situation that the County Board of Education will grant the petition of the people of Mineral Springs, against the will of the people in the district sought to be annexed, this procedure on the part of the board would be dangerous to the entire school system of Howard county.

There has been much talk of a county unit system, such as has been recently adopted in Pike county, but it is the opinion of men well versed in school affairs that the county has not reached that point in development where this plan is feasible, and when it is time for one district to consolidate with another for better advantages, then both districts should be in perfect accord as to the consolidation, and not merely one district have a desire to extend its domain and increase its wealth at the expense of the school children.

Having faith in the ability and integrity of the members of the County Board of Education, and believing they will do everything possible for the full advancement of all the school districts of the county, we believe the Board will refuse the petition of the Mineral Springs district, at least to the extent of excluding those districts which desire to be left alone as they now are, especially if those districts are as able to take care of themselves as is the Mineral Springs district.

The U. D. C. Convention

WHEN Hope opens its doors next Tuesday to the 34th annual convention of the Arkansas Department of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, it will be an historic occasion—for the parent chapter of the Arkansas organization was founded in this city a generation ago.

Rich in historical tradition, this city and county owe a genuine debt to the Daughters of the Confederacy. Their organization commemorates the glory of the South, to which Hempstead county has made perpetual contribution.

Times are changing. The tide of current events moves swiftly in this as in other sections of America. But the memory of deeds of valor is the most permanent thing in the character of the nation.

Honor is due the Daughters when they assemble here next week. All Arkansas will be watching Hope—even as this city eagerly grasps the opportunity to entertain the delegates from half a hundred counties.

A great burden rests upon the committees charged with the responsibility of housing and entertaining the convention guests. Hope should take care to make this task a matter of city-wide co-operation.

We have the reputation of being the most friendly city in Arkansas. But next week a convention is coming to town that should arouse the frank enthusiasm of every citizen of Hope and the South.

Pretty Costly

TRAFFIC congestion costs the United States $2,000,000,000 a year, according to Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

The situation, according to the secretary, is getting so bad that the loss caused by traffic jams "may be equal to our annual expenditures for the construction and maintenance of traffic facilities."

These words emphasized anew that one of our most serious problems is the traffic problem. The time is rapidly approaching when we must find some solution for it or find our social and economic life seriously crippled. No nation can keep its prosperity at a high level if it lacks a free and easy flow of transportation.

Putting a Little Snap Into the Act!

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—So many lessons are to be drawn from the exposure in which Mr. William Baldwin Shearer has been the central figure that one may as well start enumerating them and stop only when the space gives out.

One of the first concerns patriotic propaganda. It has been said but effectively demonstrated that those who beat the drum loudest and most incessantly for "military and naval preparedness" may not be the most patriotic patriots. Sometimes they are just working for shipbuilding or munitions companies. Mr. Shearer appears to have shown the advisability of checking up on the antecedents and connections of such drum-beaters whenever they get especially noisy.

The super-patriots who are forever warning us of British, Bolshevik, French, Czechoslovakian or Senegambian plots to encompass our national destruction may in the future find themselves viewed with more suspicion. Mr. Shearer was forever spreading such stories and still is.

They Have Varied Ideas
Sometimes such trouble-makers are only trying to collect money for forged documents. Sometimes they are looking for or keeping jobs on the payroll of glib patriotic societies or shipbuilders. Sometimes they are only persons with nationalistic phobias who may or may not hate the idea of world peace.

Another series of lessons concerns either the ethics or the sap-headedness of big business men. For purposes of this learned dispatch, one need not necessarily disbelieve most of the stories told by the wealthy shipbuilders who hired Mr. Shearer, although there is a widespread tendency to do so. To take the more kindly view and to believe their own admissions, they were just suckers. They were "jazzed off their feet" by the loud, aggressive Mr. Shearer.

Now, when a bunch of hard-headed shipbuilders can be persuaded by a mas of Shearer's background to pay $25,000 so that he can take a joy ride to Geneva and perpetrate his pernicious whims, the hard-headedness and perceptiveness of such gentlemen comes into question. Gold-brick salesmen, blue sky operators and other confidence men will surely be camping on their doorsteps. The only view which doesn't reflect on their intelligence simply demolishes their reputation for veracity. For they insist that they didn't hire Shearer to force an outcome at the Geneva conference which would give them more cruisers to build and that what he did for them was worthless.

Having learned that much about some of our big business men, we may be about to be given another lesson concerning their memories—especially the memory of the pious and tearful Mr. Charles M. Schwab whom Shearer calls "the Star of Bethlehem." Either Mr. Schwab, man of vision, self-sacrificing genius and self-confessed idealist, has no memory whatever or Mr. Shearer is a damned liar or Mr. Schwab is a damned liar. These are the only possibilities.

For after Mr. Schwab had denied that he ever saw Shearer, Mr. Shearer testified that his employment by the Bethlehem and other companies grew out of his conversation with none other than Mr. Schwab. Thus the next lesson to be learned will concern this issue of veracity or memory and the question is being asked what real-estate Shearer could possibly have had to connect such a story.

Other lessons which have been taught if not yet fully learned concern the conduct of high naval officers at naval arms conferences. There's another issue of veracity, for Mr. Drew Pearson, the newspaper correspondent, says members of our naval delegation at Geneva were trying to queer the conferences and the naval officers themselves deny it.

BARBS

Modern poets do not receive justice, says a magazine writer. But maybe it's just as well people haven't lost all sense of mercy.

You can't always tell by his looks whether or not a man is married. Bachelors sometimes have things to worry about, too.

A new practice golf ball which will not travel more than 30 feet is becoming popular. The ordinary ball, of course, would serve the same purpose for some of our friends who play.

Eighty-five percent of the automobiles stolen in the United States last year were recovered. Rather pessimistic results—only 15 per cent having any kind of luck.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Sid Henry

Telephone 321

One day at a time to be patient and strong. To be calm under trial and sweet under wrong. Then its toiling shall pass and its sorrow shall cease; It shall darken and die, and the night shall bring peace. wNot yesterday's lead we are called on to bear, Nor the morrow's uncertain and shadowy care; Why should we look forward or back with dismay? Our needs, as our mercies, are but for the day.—Selected.

The Oglesby P. T. A. held their regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon at the school, with Mrs. Hugh Clarke presiding. A report was given from the meeting of the P. T. A. Council by Mrs. Clarke. Miss Bessie Green presented a very interesting program, assisted by Mrs. W. N. Alexander and Mrs. J. H. White. During the business session Mrs. Clarke tendered her resignation as president and was succeeded by the First Vice President Mrs. Leon Bundy. Mrs. J. H. White was elected first vice president, and Mrs. J. M. Houston elected treasurer. Mrs. Bundy was appointed as delegate to the State P. T. A. Convention meeting in Pine Bluff next week. 39 members were present, with Mrs. George Green's room receiving the dollar for having the greatest number of mothers present.

Mrs. Dave Wilson and daughter, Miss Aloysie of Columbus attended the showing of "Noah's Ark" at the Saenger last evening.

Mrs. J. B. Schultz of Fulton was the guest of Miss Maggie Bell last evening and attended the farewell reception tendered Dr. Hopkins at the home of Mrs. J. T. West.

Mrs. L. T. McDonald was hostess to the Tuesday Bridge Club yesterday afternoon at her home on South Pine street. Beautiful red radiance roses brightened the rooms which were arranged for three tables. Invited guests were Mrs. Martin Vell Pool, Mrs. W. T. Gorman and Mrs. R. L. Gosnell, with Mrs. Pool scoring high for the guests and Mrs. Terrell Cornelius for the club. After a series of pleasant games, the hostess served a most tempting salad plate.

The ladies of the Cemetery Association are making their annual drive this week for subscriptions to the Magazine and the following ladies have been appointed as chairman for each ward, Mrs. R. O. Bridwell, ward one, Mrs. J. T. West, ward two, Mrs. Nora Carigan, ward three and Miss Lucy Boyd, ward four. Those desiring to renew their subscriptions or become a new subscriber to this popular magazine will please notify one of the above ladies.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will be hostess to a group conference tomorrow at the church. The meeting will open at 9:30 o'clock. Lunch will be served at noon hour, and the afternoon session will begin at one o'clock. Miss Skinner a religious educator from Dr. Sweet's office in Louisville, Ky., will give an inspirational address at two o'clock, to which the public is most cordially invited.

Mrs. Stith Davenport has returned from a week end visit in Little Rock.

Mrs. Fred Marshall of Texarkana will arrive in the city tomorrow to begin her class in voice at the home of Mrs. Maggie Bell on South Main street.

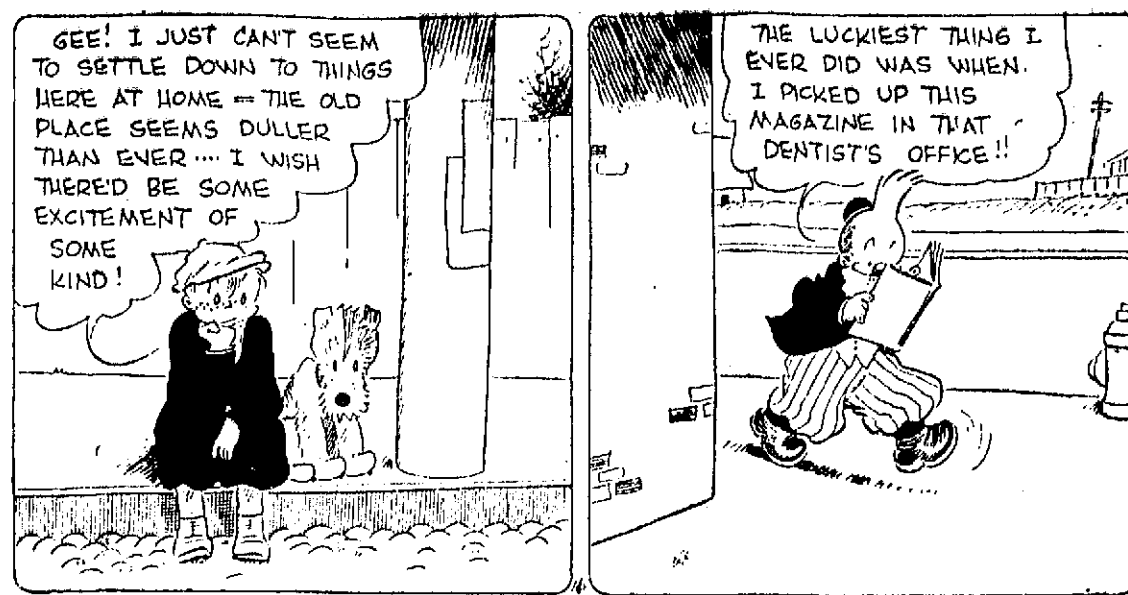

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Frances Buddin with Mrs. T. R. King and Mrs. Frank Miles as associate hostesses. Mrs. John Arnold will conduct the devotional and a splendid program has been arranged. All members are urged to be present and bring literature for distribution.

The Garland P. T. A. met yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Mrs. Dorsey McRae, the president presiding. Reports were read from the various committees and Miss Henry gave a very interesting report of the meeting recently held by the P. T. A. Council. Mrs. Roy Anderson conducted a program outlining the plans for the year's work. Forty-two members were present, with Miss Allen's room winning the dollar, for having the greatest number of mothers present.

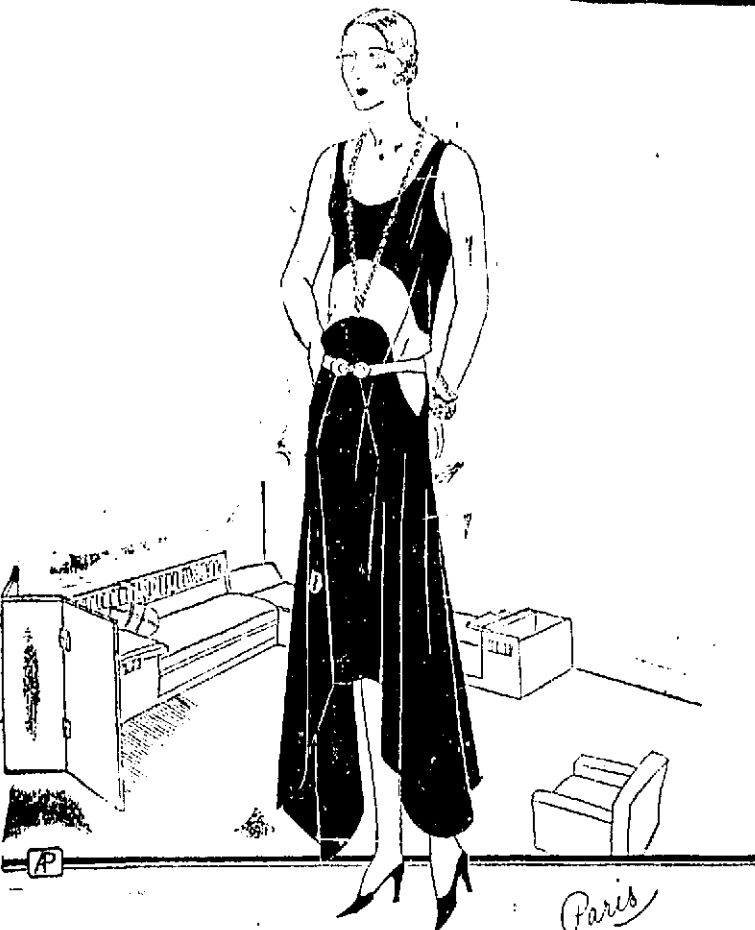

Mr. and Mrs. Frp. Hill are spending some time visiting with relatives and friends in El Dorado.

If anybody has been overlooked by the entertainment committee in securing homes for the delegates during the State U. D. C. convention meeting in our city next week, please notify Mrs. W. W. Duckett, chairman of this committee, as they have been notified that the delegation will be unusually large. Hope's reputation for hospitality has gone abroad and "we must care."

be purged. "When the board is composed of civilians and the Pension Department transferred to the comptroller, who is the financial agent of the state, we will never have fraud, and politics will be eliminated from the pension fund."

"The pension fund is not a charity fund, but a debt of gratitude for hard and dangerous service rendered."

Relates "Some Facts" "Let me state some facts known to be true by my own experience. 40 years ago I knew every Confederate soldier in Clark county. With the pension roll of that county before me, I see only the names of three old soldiers that I knew 40 years ago, and seven widows of veterans on this roll."

"I served in two companies from Clark county and there were 183 men in the two companies; one had 89 men and the other 94. To my astonishment there is not a single one of them on the pension roll. "In Heaven's name, where did all these pensioners come from?" "I have the original muster roll of both companies, printed and framed under glass, hanging in my room, so I can speak from the record. I know only one man living beside myself of the 185 men I soldiered with."

"In the fall of 1866 after the close of the war, there were seven couples married in my immediate community, and today I am the only living one of the 14 persons. "Another instance: For the past 40 years I have kept a record of the old Confederate soldiers who have died in a radius of 10 miles around where I live. Out of 38 there are four living and four others have left windows." Mr. Clingen describes himself as "an old Confederate soldier 89 years old, who served through the entire Civil war between the states who has scars on his body made by enemy bullets, and has voted in 17 presidential elections."

Local Man Seeks Supply of Lawn Mowing Worms

Last week army worms invaded Clarksville, Texas, and within a few days had completely mowed several lawns and then moved on in search of other pastures. Soon as that item appeared in print it was seen by W. W. Duckett of the Southern Grain concern here, and he immediately began figuring out ways to order a carload of the worms, guaranteeing to furnish them plenty of shade and water and a job all summer on his lawn.

The Innocent Cheat

By Ruth Dewey Groves
AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL-POOR GIRL," ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Helen Page feels indebted to and in love with her guardian, Leonard Brent. The latter changes his plans for her future after meeting a dying beggar, Nellin, and tells the girl she is the heiress of a millionaire named Cunningham. Brent takes her to the lonely old man and offers proofs which Cunningham accepts, as he had been searching for his dead daughter's child for years.

Among Helen's new friends are Eva Ennis and her brother Robert, who falls in love with her. Brent becomes jealous of Bob and plots to win Helen quickly, especially after finding another locket like the one he had taken from Nellin to prove Helen the heiress. Hearing that a sudden shock would kill Cunningham, Brent slyly administers the shock, and the servants find the old man dead in bed. Then, by clever acting and appeal to her loyalty Brent wins Helen's promise to marry him.

Later, she and Bob discover their true love for each other and he is angry when she tells him she cannot break her engagement even though she loves him. Bob flirts with Shallimar Morris, not knowing that Helen has tried to break with Brent after finding him indulging in a love affair with another woman. But he had refused to release her and had made dire threats, if she tried to throw him over.

Eva realizes that Helen is unhappy, but resents her treatment of Bob which has driven him to Shallimar. But Eva is worried too, for Brent is now avoiding her after having made ardent love to her secretly.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

In her mind, as well as his, was the memory of another invitation to supper. Helen turned quickly to get into her car, while Bob stood in the road, asking himself if she'd ever cared for him.

He wanted to tell her he wouldn't eat a bite of her food if it choked him, but he said nothing and Shallimar sang out that they'd be along in a minute.

"Why did you do that?" Eva broke out, unable to restrain herself.

"It will be—fun," Helen answered, but Eva saw when they passed beneath a light that she had caught her underlip hard between her teeth.

Suddenly, as they drove through the gateway at Bramblewood Helen said: "Eva, stay with me tonight. I've got to talk to somebody."

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Nothing exciting happened at supper. Eva clamped her lips together and opened them practically for the sole purpose of partaking of the creamed mushrooms that Helen had prepared, while Shallimar and Bob danced to the music of a phonograph.

Bob talked with his eyes, which Helen avoided looking at as much as possible. He had, she thought, a mean streak a mile wide to sneer at her, even if he didn't put it in words.

She herself tried to keep the conversation going by talking of the show at the Garden, but Shallimar kept interrupting to tell of the place where she and Bob had spent the evening.

Once when Shallimar reached out a hand and laid it possessively on one of Bob's Helen flinched. The gesture seemed somehow to upset Bob too. He looked across the table at Eva. "Let's go home, sis," he said; "you look tired."

Eva jumped to her feet without delay. "Do you mind if we run, Helen?" she begged. "I am tired." "So am I," Shallimar chimed in. "Bob, you simply exhaust me." "Bob, you simply exhaust me," Very prettily she suppressed a yawn, though her eyes were wide awake. They seemed to be, to anyone who was interested in reading their expression, sharing a secret with Bob.

Helen appealed to Eva. "You promised to stay here tonight," she said.

Eva hesitated for half a moment. Would Bob go at once if he stayed, she wondered? For Helen's sake she wanted to break up the party. Anyone with any sense at all could see that Helen was on the ragged edge, she thought, furious with her brother for having come at all. But Helen would not have asked her to stay unless she really needed a confidant, Eva knew.

"I did promise Helen to stay all night," she said to Bob, "but I think you'd better go home now. You know mother is worrying about our staying out."

"You know what's worrying her," Bob retorted meaningfully, but was instantly contrite when he saw an expression of acute mental suffering flood his sister's face.

"I'll go," he added quickly, "if you'll check me out, Miss Nellin." Helen rose, with a touch of alacrity, Bob thought. But it was Shallimar who went to the door with him, out to his car, in fact, and kissed him good night.

MOM'N POP

When he came in Helen and Eva were upstairs. Helen called down to her, so that she would not seem completely neglectful. But Shallimar did not come in to say good night. She paused for a moment in the doorway of Helen's room and then went on to her own.

Eva walked over and closed the door.

Helen was getting out a pair of pajamas for her, but without much care in the choosing. Eva accepted them with no comment, though ordinarily she'd have exclaimed with admiration over their daintiness.

The girls had little to say until they were in bed, though Eva yearned to offer comfort to the friend who had done so much for her. But Helen's silence was something to be respected.

The room was softly dark, fragrant with the perfume of an exquisite person's belonging. Eva thought of her own little room at home, but there was no envy in her heart—only an ache that made her kin to all the suffering souls throughout the universe.

Softly as rose petals falling she felt Helen's hand touch hers, take it, and suddenly grip it convulsively. There was a stifled sob, that echoed in Eva's torment, followed by the words: "Eva, I love him so much."

Eva knew. She slipped an arm under Helen's head and crooned wordlessly over the sob-racked girl.

When her strength was completely spent Helen lay for awhile grasping brokenly. Then she told Bob's sister of their quarrel and how Shallimar had stepped in just when she had sought him to tell him she was not going to marry anyone else.

"Bob doesn't care anything about her; I know he doesn't," Eva declared.

"But he meant what he said to me when he called me a rotter," Helen answered wearily. "He treats me like dirt."

"He's as unhappy as you are; I know he is," Eva maintained. "Why, Helen, can't you see how thin he's getting? He never eats and when he isn't working or studying he's out with Miss Morris and it's just to get his mind off you; I know it is."

"I wish I could believe you," Helen replied.

"Won't you tell me what you quarreled over in the first place, Helen?" Eva pleaded.

"Another man—someone I was engaged to marry," Helen told her.

Eva gasped. "Well," she said, "you certainly can keep a secret, Helen."

"I'll tell you all about it some day," Helen promised; "but I'd rather not talk of it any more now. Eva. It's ended, but Bob didn't have enough faith in me to see it through. Or maybe he just didn't love me after all."

"Nonsense," Eva exclaimed.

Helen answered with some spirit. "I'll try to forget him too," she said. "Well go ahead together, Eva; you and I, we will have a wonderful time and . . . and . . ."

Again she was weeping in Eva's arms. Eva held her in silence.

The next morning Eva awoke shortly after Helen had fallen into a sleep of exhaustion. She drew herself gently away and got quickly out of bed.

In a few minutes she was dressed and downstairs. A maid was cleaning the lower hall. Eva stopped and asked if there was anyone about who could drive her to her home.

"The gardener is in the kitchen," 'avin' 'is breakfast, miss," the servant answered, "e can drive."

"Thank you," Eva replied and hurried on to the kitchen. In the seed-pearl bag which Helen had given her she had a little silver. All there she gave to the man to leave a breakfast and take her home without delay.

She wanted to see Bob before he left the house. When she got home she rushed up to his room with as little noise as possible, and rapped softly on its door.

She was answered by silence. She rapped again, louder, then jerked the door open. Bob was still asleep. He opened his eyes and gazed at her dully. Like Helen, he had not slept until weariness had overcome him. But Eva did not give him time to wonder about her visit.

"Bob," she began in a tense, subdued voice, "tell me, you haven't got yourself tangled up with Shallimar Morris, have you?"

Bob sat up and frowned at her. "What the deuce is the matter with you?" he asked in reply.

"Never mind me," Eva insisted. "I want to know about you and Shallimar."

"Well, there's nothing to know," Bob grumbled.

"You're too lucky, after the way you've behaved to Helen," Eva told him.

"Look here . . ." he began but Eva stopped him.

"Get up and dress," she commanded, "and go right over to Bramblewood."

Her seriousness convinced Bob that the need of his presence at Helen's home was urgent. "What's wrong?" he demanded.

"Helen wants you," Eva told him.

until Bob suggested that she go to "Why hasn't he come here? And Helen and ask her outright if who has Helen been seeing besides husband. But had not been her affianced him? There isn't anyone, is there?"

"No, no," Eva choked, "I can't, before she came to Yonkers," Eva And I wouldn't want Helen to be away."

"But can't you see that it is?" she him. She was going to see him that you and Brent . . . why, let her marry me! Let her marry me! Bob repeated hasn't he been open about it, Eva? the words with heat.

"But it isn't Leonard, I know it isn't," Eva weaned.

"But if it were?" Bob insisted.

"Oh, I don't know! I don't know!"

Bob set his lips in grim determination. "Get out now," he said quietly. "I want to dress."

"What are you going to do?" Eva asked, half wild with fear. "I am going to see Helen."

A Mystery Party For Halloween

TO begin with, the invitations are mysterious. They come, addressed conventionally, in an ordinary envelope, but inside there is a blank sheet of paper with this sentence across the top: "Hold me up close to an electric light bulb." We will let you into the secret of these invitations—they are written with a clean pen dipped in a solution of baking soda. The letters are invisible until held to the light, when they turn brown and disclose something like this: "You are summoned to a session of ghosts to be held at the house of the two jack o'lanterns on blank Avenue between blank and blank streets, on Halloween. Approach promptly at eleven, knock three times and the door will swing silently on its hinges to let you enter. Only ghosts are admitted."

On the night of the party the house is marked with two jack o'lanterns placed on the gate posts—or the porch railing. Inside, all the lights are dimmed with blue tissue paper, the furniture is covered with sheets, and ironing boards, brooms and other suitable objects are "dressed" in old clothes and placed in dimly lighted corners. As the guests arrive, the door is opened from the inside so that no person is seen. The hostess, disguised as a ghost, stands at the stairs and in a sepulchral voice directs the way to the cloak room.

The first game starts out spookily. The guests sit on the floor in an almost closed circle. As soon as they are settled, some one outside starts a series of pre-arranged noises—for instance, turns on a vacuum cleaner, drops a lot of pans down the stairs, or shrieks weirdly, and at the same time, a table moves slowly across the room (this can be easily done by pulling with a cord attached to one leg). When the excitement is at its height, there enters a bent old witch leaning on a broom and carrying a cauldron. She tells the assemblage that she is going to make a magic brew, but that each ingredient must be passed around the circle first so that everyone may share in the fortune that comes out of the brew. The guests, or rather ghosts, must promise to shut their eyes and pass each object quickly on to the next person.

The first thing passed is a piece of ice. This is quickly followed by a hot baked potato. Then comes a rubber glove filled with cold water and tightly tied at the top. A soup bone, a couple of raw oysters and a piece of fur may be added to the collection. As each object reaches the end of the circle, it is deposited in the cauldron. When everything is in, the old witch stirs and stirs and then sets the cauldron aside for the brew to ripen. Later in the evening, fortunes neatly written out are taken out of the brew—one for each guest.

Follow this spooky experience by a game of "unmasking." This is a revised version of the old favorite musical chairs. Place two rows of chairs back to back, having one less chair than there are guests. With the music, the company starts to march around the chairs stopping to sit down as soon as the music stops. Each time, the person who is left out may take off the ghostly sheet and be herself again.

After this game, the fortunes may be drawn and read and then it will be nearly time for supper. If the refreshments are to be served in the dining room—and it is usually the easiest way—have a table centerpiece of a jack o'lantern with a lighted candle inside. For favors use popcorn balls with yellow crepe paper ruffs for necks and black paper dance hats. They are very effective and easy to make. The features can be painted on with raisins.

Have a "mystery pie" at each place. This is a paper plate containing sandwiches, pickles, cookies, etc., and covered with a sheet of brown paper arranged to resemble a pie crust. On the cocoa which is served with the repast floats a round marshmallow with painted face of melted chocolate.

Recipes for several varieties of cookies which are particularly suitable for Halloween designs are given below:

Dark O'Moon Cookies
1/2 cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 square chocolate (1oz.)
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder

1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup raisins
1 cup nuts

Cream Crisco and sugar. Add eggs one at a time and beat well. Add melted chocolate, then add the flour in which the baking powder and salt have been sifted. Add raisins and nuts. Roll on floured board, cut shape of half moon. Cut with regular cookie cutter in round shape, then set back the cutter in half-moons, so that there are two half-moons to one whole. Bake in moderate oven 375° F. from ten to fifteen minutes. Makes about four dozen. These cookies are good brushed over with a thin milk and sugar frosting.

Filled Fig Cookies

1 cup Crisco
2 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 cup sour cream or buttermilk
1/2 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
4 cups flour (or more)

Cream Crisco and sugar. Beat in the eggs one at a time. Add the sour milk alternately with the dry ingredients which have been sifted together. Roll dough very thin and cut with cookie cutter. Put a teaspoon of filling on one round, wet the edge of the cookie and cover with a second round, pressing the edges together. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) ten to fifteen minutes.

Filling
Grind raw figs. Sweeten to taste and add enough water to cook. Let cool before filling cookies.

Caramel Sand Tarts

1 cup brown sugar
1 cup Crisco
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cups flour (sifted)
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco with sugar until smooth and light. Stir in egg and vanilla. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Chill, roll out on a slightly floured board to a thin sheet, cut into fancy shape, brush with slightly beaten egg white, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar (1 tablespoon sugar to 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon). Bake at 350° F. for 10 minutes.

The Story of Natural Gas

In The Local Office

We have reached the end of the brief sketch of natural gas. With a word about the work of the office force, we have completed the cycle, showing you the steps required to bring natural gas to you, and to maintain satisfactory.

A busy force of men and women are working here, keeping books and seeing that your needs are filled. Statements are made out, and supplies checked in comparison with the meter. In reality, this is the nerve center of the organization. Here, a from new customers, and distribution to present consumers is supervised. At no place in the cycle of gas production do the workers have your interest more at heart than here.

Fans Visit Rink Each Afternoon To Watch Fighters In Work Outs

Two Old Favorites, the "Preacher" and "the Black Peril" Will Endeavor To Massage Each Other's Mugs With Six-Ounce Gloves.

Tex Lenville, boxer and promoter, doesn't depend entirely on the fight game for a living, as evidenced by the fact that he bought himself a truck and put it into service for heavy hauling, doing the "gunning" all by his lonesome—and he says it will keep him in condition.

But he didn't have time to devote to promoting the usual weekly card here so impressed Cammy Goble, Jack Stacy's manager and promoter of experience, to help him put the bouts over. Sammy threw his feet out in front of him the first thing being to sing preacher Walker and Perry Briggs for a bout Thursday night of this week. Which, by the way, is an added attraction in itself worth going a long ways to see for these boys are both good.

When Goble matched Stacy with Bob Pierce, from down to Cotton Valley, he gave away weight and reach. Pierce a lot tougher than most folks seem to think—not a set-up for anybody in his class as was demonstrated in his fight with Huettner here. He can take it and give it and while Stacy is a clever boxer, fast and able to hit, it's a foregone conclusion he won't regard this Pierce affair as anything resembling a day off from work.

Ralph Taylor, local high school boy who has the making of a real boxer in his system, isn't talking much—but Johnny Whatley, local barber and boxer will probably be willing to admit Friday morning that Taylor is something of a juvenile stinging lizard. Whatley and Taylor each believes he is certain to win—and each is going in there all set for a chance to put over a sleep producer.

There you are, folks. It listens like a real card. Thirty-four rounds and a dingside seat will cost you but a dollar and a half. The price was liked a bit, but it was necessary to give fans the kind of shows Lenville and Goble plan to stage. "Preacher" vs. "Peril," Taylor against Whatley, Stacy and Pierce. If that array won't bring fight fans out well, there just ain't any fans, that's all.

Freshman Prospect

He was just another freshman prospect. On his feet were shoes that failed to match by three sizes. His sweater was tattered and full of holes. The pants he wore were the old-fashioned style with stays down the front like pleats.

For an hour he had stood in line with other freshmen candidates at Notre Dame when the uniforms were being passed out. While the "prospect" was still five places away from the window, the office ran out of suits.

After that he had gone out in his own street clothes and practiced with the yearlings. After a week he summoned up enough nerve to stop Rockne.

"Mr. Rockne," he said, "I want to play football here and I haven't got a suit. Two of my brothers played for Notre Dame and I want a chance."

Rockne sent the prospect to the freshmen coach with a request for a uniform. The result was the makeshift outfit described above. The Old Spirit

"I was tickled to death to get that uniform, even though one of the shoes blistered my foot and the other one hung on loosely. I went out and they put me in at tackle on the defense. I took a terrible beating. The foot that had the small shoe swelled up and pained terribly. But I went out again the next night and pretty soon was put in a defensive halfback.

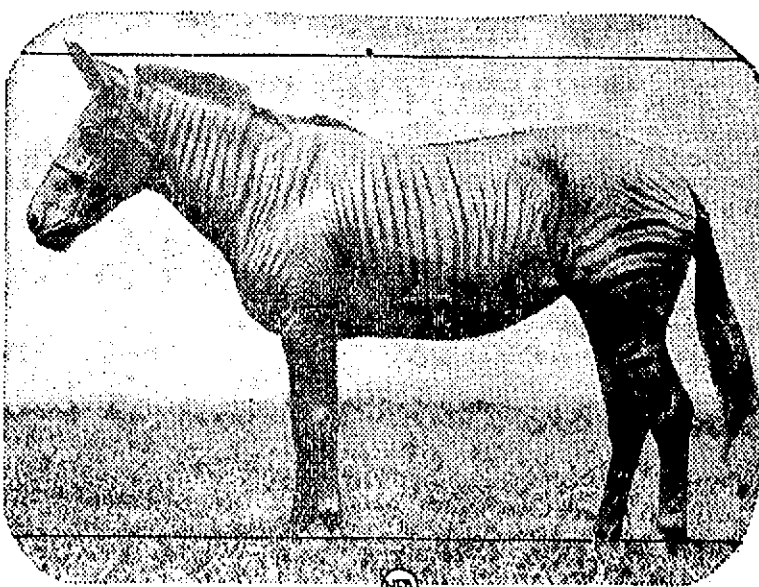

"Nobody seemed to pay much attention to my playing. When the time came for the freshmen to take the trip to Culver,

When President Was One of 35,000 Fans

Copyright, 1929, by NEA Service, Inc. Transmitted by Telephoto. President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover are shown above as they attended the final game of the world series and received a huge thrill, along with 35,000 other fans, when the Philadelphia Athletics staged a sensational ninth-inning rally to win the world championship from the Chicago Cubs. Above, left to right, are Attorney General Mitchell, Mrs. Hoover, President Hoover and Mrs. Harry Mackey, wife of the mayor of Philadelphia, who occupied the presidential box at the game. Below, Max Bishop, star second baseman of the A's, is pictured as he connected with a fast one to start the rally in the ninth inning that resulted in the rout of the Cubs. Taylor is back of the plate for the Cubs and the umpire is Bill Klem.

Neither This Nor That!

'Tis neither mule nor zebra, this quaint animal who looks about ready to give a hearty "hee-haw." But it's a zebroid, the result of cross breeding a mule and a zebra on the farm of Dr. W. E. Hastings near Mount Vernon, Ind. This cross is as large as a mule, although better formed. The body is brown with black stripes and the animal withstands the heat in a long pull even better than the mule. This cross breed is rare.

"The Old Spirit"

The prospect, as you surely know by now, was Don Miller, one of the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame. Miller is now coaching the backfield at Ohio State.

He went to Notre Dame without the reputation of a star. He had made up his mind to play football, however, and he stuck to it. The path he followed is the same that thousands of other young fellows are starting on this fall—as freshmen, with strange shoes, tattered sweaters and ancient pants.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Joe Engel, former Washington pitcher and scout for Clark Griffith, recently closed a deal for the Chattanooga team in the Southern League. . . . And Clyde Milan, former Memphis manager, who is now head coach of the Senators, probably will manage the team—The Senators will train in Chattanooga—Burt Shotton of the Phils doesn't see how the Cubs could lose to the Athletics—He says the only edge the Macs have is in Fox and Cochrane—Eddie Braunick, secretary of the Giants, says Root and Carlson ought to stop the Macs dead Waite Hoyt thinks the A's will overpower the Cubs with hitting—McGraw said the Cubs were very hard to beat at home, and the next week the Giants took three out of four from them.

ATE VERY LITTLE, SO EASILY UPSET

Lady Says Indigestion Troubles Were Relieved by Theodor's Black-Draught.

Piedmont, S. C.—"For a long time, I had a severe case of indigestion," says Mrs. Bell Buckheiser, of 7 River Street, this city. "So many things that I ate hurt me, I almost quit eating until I was so weak and run-down, I could not do my work, or go about to see my friends. I would burn in my chest. I had severe headache, and such a tight, smothering feeling. I would be obliged to eat a little, then it would hurt me."

"A friend said to me: 'What causes your smothering spells?' and I told her 'indigestion and constipation.' She said: 'Why don't you take Black-Draught more often?' 'I was just too weak then to do my work. I began taking small doses after meals, and in just a few weeks I could eat anything I wanted to, then take my small dose of Black-Draught and feel fine. 'I soon regained my health and strength, and could eat 'most anything. I haven't taken any other medicine for five or six years. I am rid of the stomach trouble, don't get constipated, and give the praise to Black-Draught.'

Golfing Tilt Is Slated for Sunday

Little River Country Club Plans Tournament for Guests.

Golfers from all over Southwest Arkansas will meet at Little River Country Club Sunday, Oct. 20, for a tournament which has been arranged by O. O. Lumpkin, of Texarkana, and Fred Sharp, of Horatio, club members.

The U. C. C. club at Texarkana is planning to send 25 or more players to enter the tourney, and the Texarkana Country Club will be represented by a number of players. Other towns that have been requested to send entries are De Queen, Hope, Nashville, Mena, Foreman, Ashdown, Dierks, Idabel, Broken Bow, and all towns and cities represented in the membership of the club.

All the facilities of the club will be open to the golfers and their families for the day including the club house, tennis courts, boating, children's play grounds, picnic grounds, etc. It is expected that the event will attract a large crowd.

Ed. I. Rephan announced the starting of two more new stores in the Rephan chain, one to be opened Saturday at Forrest City, and another to be opened at Batesville within a very few weeks. This makes a total of eighteen stores in the Rephan chain, a Hope organization, which has grown to enormous proportions in the past few years.

Mutual Trust Among Bankers Made Recent Big Swindle Possible Is Report

Credits totaling $500,000 to a Colorado bank having been granted by six New York banks in response to fraudulent telegrams raised the question in the public mind as to what safeguards public banks employed to avoid such occurrence and why these safeguards did not operate in this case, writes L. B. N. Graedinger in the New York Times. The answer derived from banking sources was that there were ways to prevent such contingencies, but that after bank officials reach an attitude of mutual trust toward one another they do not always exercise them.

Charles Lelos Waggoner, president of the Bank of Tellerude, Colo., now under arrest, was able to use the $500,000 credit to meet indebtedness of his bank because he had been personally known in New York over a period of years. To have questioned his authority by denying his requests would have been comparable to one merchant suddenly questioning the solvency of another merchant with whom he had had many satisfactory dealings.

The Waggoner swindle served to make known what the network of protection is that banks, through their city, country, or state organizations and particularly through the American Bankers Association, use to guard their transactions. President Waggoner has admitted that he sent the spurious telegrams through

GUERNSEY

The fall term of the Guernsey Junior High school began October 7. The outline of the year's work was presented by Mr. Mullins, the principal. Mr. Mullins stated that the entire curriculum would follow the state course of study as outlined by the state department of education, that every effort would be made to bring the equipment and facilities up to standard. Several things were mentioned in the line of extra-curricular activities. Among these were: the building of a community library, organization of a P. T. A. and putting into activity a student S. I. A. The school spirit seemed very contagious among both teachers and pupils, and everything looks promising for a successful school year.

The Guernsey High School students are planning to put on a real interesting play. Watch for the date and be present.

Rev. Herbert Wilkins is conducting a very interesting meeting at Water Creek. It has been going on ten days.

Guernsey High School has quite an interesting period of thirty minutes twice a week. Tuesday, assembly period, is used for school problems and questions to be explained. This is usually a business meeting and is generally conducted by the teachers. Friday, chapel period, is given to Bible reading and singing. It is occasionally conducted by prominent ministers. We welcome any visitors.
